ABSTRACT

Business organizations have waked up to the need for being committed towards Corporate Social Responsibility. But still majority have just been taking up some form of philanthropic activities for its stakeholders. Nurturing a strong corporate culture which emphasizes Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) values and competencies is required to achieve the synergistic benefits. The employees of an organization occupy a central place in developing such a culture which underlines CSR values and competencies. The present study, therefore, is an attempt to explore the engagement of human resource management professionals in undertaking Corporate Social Responsibility. It also suggests Human Resource Management to take a leading role in encouraging CSR activities at all levels. The combined impact of CSR and human resource activities, which reinforce desirable behavior, can make a major contribution in creating long term success in organizations.

ABSTRACT

Human resources were always considered as liabilities; but in the evolving scenario, organizations have started recognizing them as assets. For valuation of human resources, Human Resource Accounting is being used by a few organizations. This concept is still in a developmental stage. We know that every coin has two sides; similarly, Human Resource Accounting has its own advantages and disadvantages. If human resources are valued correctly then organization can use this data as a tool for future decision making in matters related to human resources which is directly connected to the profitability of organization. As this concept is still in a nascent state, there is no formal method as yet which is universally accepted. This article focuses on the development of the concept, definition, importance and limitation of Human Resource Accounting.

ABSTRACT

Today we are experiencing a country-wide effort to curb money laundering and terror financing. Already Rs.500 and Rs.1000 notes have been banned and replaced by the Reserve Bank of India. Therefore, we need to know what is money laundering, who launders the money and what is their destination, what is terror financing and what is the process of money laundering and terror financing. In fact, we have to have an idea of parallel economy. Money is the root cause of many evils like corruption, black marketing, smuggling, drug trafficking, tax evasion, and the buck does not stop here it goes to the extent of sex tourism and human trafficking (a human selling another human in the era of human rights). People are crazy for money. In this article, a descriptive research has been made to make all aware about what money laundering is, its processes and destinations and also the steps by the Government to curb Money Laundering and Terror Financing.
