ABSTRACT

This article discusses the proverbs as paremic units, their features, differences from related phenomena, the study of Uzbek folk proverbs and morphological system. The environment is a complex object of perception for human beings. A nation's way of life cannot understand the diversity of the surrounding reality throughout its life, adapt to it, and develop acceptable ways of living. So at this time wisdom was used in its own sense, it was considered a parable. Over time, as a result of idiomization, it became a proverb. Therefore, "some parables will be changed into a proverb when time goes"(B.Saatov) [15: 7]. Although both mosquitoes and ants are insects, we can see that there is a positive evaluation of ants and a negative evaluation of mosquitoes.
