ABSTRACT

This article contains ideas about the relationship between language and culture, their linguistic interpretation, interdependence. Some languages are spoken by tens or even hundreds of millions of people, while others are spoken by thousands, hundreds, or even countless people. For example, Congolese speak 500 languages, Indonesians 250, and Sudanese 117. Language and culture can be seen as a relative asymmetry. The reason for this can be explained by the fact that the representatives of many countries around the world carry out the process of communication in a single language.
