ABSTRACT

No matter how important the form and appearance of diplomatic documents, attention should be paid to the main part, its content. The idea must be clear, concise, logically sound, and concise. Diplomatic documents are very comprehensive, they cover not only issues related to the declaration of independence of countries and the establishment of diplomatic relations with other countries, but also political issues such as peace, neutrality, disarmament, etc. and various issues related to cultural cooperation. The author comments on the semantic relationship between diplomatic terms in the article. In addition, the article discusses the lexical-semantic features, relationships and synonyms and antonyms between diplomatic terms.
