ABSTRACT

The article examines the role of youth in the economic development of society from a socio philosophical point of view. The article also develops theoretical conclusions and recommendations for strengthening the role of youth in the economic development of society. The emergence and development of economic thinking of young people in Uzbekistan during the new stage of development, i.e. the "Third Renaissance" is an objective socio-economic process. The first is the relationship between the object of property and the subject of property, which includes the relationship of knowing the value of things that are the object of property, respecting them, preserving them, advertising them, or keeping them secret. In such a system, the same legal conditions are created for the operation of all forms of property. This, in turn, gives all young people the right to own property in the first place; second, it allows them to freely dispose of their property; third, freedom, entrepreneurship, initiative are encouraged.
