ABSTRACT

The article deals with the emotive means of the language. Based on the works of foreign linguists, the author of the article defines the categorical status of emotiveness and correlates the concept of "emotiveness" with the adjacent category of "expressiveness". It also determines the categorical status of emotiveness, an analytical review of the literature on a given topic is carried out, and an attempt is made to correlate emotiveness with an adjacent category of expressiveness. Proponents of the linguistic stylistic approach consider expressiveness at the level of utterance, exploring ways giving the speech originality and expressiveness. The main question is the choice of means of successful transmission of the speaker's intention. Expressiveness is studied as a functional category that manifests itself in a communicative act and increases the expressive capabilities of discourse.

KEYWORDS: The category of emotiveness, Communicativeness and expressiveness, discourse.
