ABSTRACT

This article describes the poetry of the poet Rauf Parfi, who has a worthy place in Uzbek poetry, its peculiarities, the peculiarities of the poet's work on the basis of analytical ideas. In twentieth-century Uzbek poetry, Rauf Parfi created a unique style that raised the synthesis of thought and experience to the level of art, combining the natural flow of pure emotion, the figurative expression of the bubble. In particular, first of all, the purpose of life is to perfect the soul. Second, without spiritual freedom, man cannot express himself; and third, the preconceived notion that a nation, a people, cannot survive without national unity, defined the aesthetic value of the poet's poetry.
