ABSTRACT

This article describes the role of associative units in the creation of the Uzbek language corpus, their specific features. The attitude of the questions to the types of associative units, the formation of syntactic compounds through such units, their placement in the corpus are expressed. The associative connection of lexical units in an antonymous relationship is also based on a semantic relationship. It is well known that any conflict requires opposing members. The interconnectedness of opposing members through confrontation causes them to remember each other in the memory of the speaker. The associative meaning of a lexeme is realized through a word like a lexical meaning, but the lexical meaning is expressed in the lexeme, the associative meaning is formed in the linguistic consciousness of language owners in connection with a certain lexical unit.
