

CONCERNING PSYCHOLINGUISTIC UNITS

S. Kurbanova*

*PhD, Major Lecturer,

FerSU, UZBEKISTAN

DOI: 10.5958/2249-7137.2021.02441.1

---

ABSTRACT

Means of communication or a set of conditional signs with social meaning, but also an expression that reflects a person, his inner world, behavior, whole activity, in short, a complete human image. The structure of the psycholinguistic unit is specified. It is well known that each field of science has an object of study, and this boundary is additionally refined with the help of its units and the meanings of the same units. To comment on the question of psycholinguistic units, it is first necessary to clearly define their boundaries with linguistic units. It should be noted that linguistic units are divided into linguistic and speech.

KEYWORDS: Social Meaning, Means Of Communication, Cognitive Linguistics, Stereotypes, Contradictions, Lifestyle, Social Perception, Social Attitudes.

---

REFERENCES

1. Leontov AA. Psycholinguistic units and the generation of speech utterance. M.: Nauka, 1969.
2. Mahmudov N. In search of ways to perfect the study of language. Uzbek language and literature. Tashkent, 2012;(5):3-16.
3. Nurmonov A. The relationship of linguistics with psychology. Selected works. 3 volumes. – Tashkent: Akademnashr, 2012;2:164-169.
4. Nurmonov A, Hakimov M. Theoretical formation of linguistic pragmatics. Uzbek language and literature, 2001;(4):54-58 .
5. Solntsev VM. Words and phrases in their relation to units of language and units of speech "Controversial issues of grammar of the Chinese language". 1963.
6. Usmonova Sh. Interpretation of psycholinguistic and sociological concepts in sociolinguistics. Linguist, V Collection of scientific articles, T .: Akadempres, 2014;106-108.