ABSTRACT

Alisher Navoi's global ideas for the development of the young generation and their national significance are analyzed. The path to such human perfection is a must begin in school, in primary education. The "I" in a person speaks only when he has an independent mind. Thought is the product of the inner self. The methods widely used in national pedagogy today are aimed at achieving high results in a short period of time without spending too much mental and physical effort on the student-teacher. When using this method, the teacher is required to record the opinion of each student working on the issue, to ensure the freedom of each participant, to require substantiation of the opinion, and to continue the discussion until the end of the opinion. His indescribable verses, his verses, his concern for man, the people, his humanity, his tireless struggle for justice, fairness, and righteousness, how great love is boiled in this sensitive heart, how high is this bright ideas in the brain, thoughts and others.
