ABSTRACT

The world is wide, there are many countries in the world, but in this world, our unique homeland, Uzbekistan, is unique. The uniqueness of the country called Uzbekistan is reflected in its unique nature, rich history, hardworking people, as well as the fact that people of different nationalities and ethnic groups live on this land as children of one family. Such harmony, friendship and cooperation have deep historical roots and foundations. When a just national policy is pursued, multiethnicity helps to understand the unity of our goals, the unity of our destiny, the need for solidarity, the priority of universal ideas, and the correct understanding of personal interests. On the contrary, a lack of vigilance and sensitivity in national relations and even a slight disregard for national principles can have a negative impact on peace and stability.

INTRODUCTION

The uniqueness of the country called Uzbekistan is reflected in its unique nature, rich history, hardworking people, as well as the fact that people of different nationalities and ethnic groups live on this land as children of one family. Such harmony, friendship and cooperation have deep historical roots and foundations. When a just national policy is pursued, multiethnicity helps to understand the unity of our goals, the unity of our destiny, the need for solidarity, the priority of universal ideas, and the correct understanding of personal interests. On the contrary, a lack of vigilance and sensitivity in national relations and even a slight disregard for national principles can have a negative impact on peace and stability.

MAIN PART

All of today's reforms serve to further strengthen our independence. Because so many great and honorable people were born in this heavenly country; if we take the example of Imam Al-Bukhari as a great hadith scholar, the hadiths he collected as a great scholar are loved and revered in many countries. Achieving Independence in the Republic of Uzbekistan was of great importance. During this period, the adoption of the Law on the State Language under the leadership of the First President was the first step towards independence. The first focus was on the State Language, and after the adoption, the main goal was to understand national identity and restore statehood. Gave. On March 24, 1990, the post of President of Uzbekistan was established. Now the main task was the adoption of the Declaration on the State Sovereignty of the Republic of Uzbekistan, a document of great importance in the historical destiny of the country and the people, because this declaration was the main criterion for creating freedom and freedom of our people. The next declaration took into account the centuries-old historical experience and traditions of the Uzbek people. The Declaration of Independence, adopted at the 2nd session of the Supreme Soviet of the Uzbek SSR on June 20, 1990, included some clauses related to the formation of the National Army. This declaration consists of 12 articles. From that day, the issues of economic and political life of the republic began to be resolved independently. It was during this period that the first new book on independence was published. The first book by President Islam Karimov, published in 1991, was published in Uzbekistan. "We are doing our best to ensure that our people are no less than anyone else in the world, and that our children are stronger, more educated, wiser and, of course, happier than we are." In this regard, the issue of spiritual education is undoubtedly of paramount importance. If we lose our vigilance and sensitivity, our determination and our responsibility, and leave this very important thing to its own devices, we may lose our historical memory of our spiritual values, which are nourished and nourished by our sacred values. The VI Extraordinary Session of the Supreme Council of the Republic of Uzbekistan of the XII convocation, convened on August 31, 2012, played an important role in the proclamation of Uzbekistan as an Independent State. Because it was the eternal dream of our people;

First of all, do you approve the State Independence of the Republic of Uzbekistan on December 29, 1991? The results of the referendum on the subject are a clear example. The referendum was attended by 94.1% or 9,898,707 registered voters. 9 million 718 thousand 555 people or 98.2% of those who took part in the referendum voted for the state independence of the Republic of Uzbekistan. This event helped the people of Uzbekistan to determine their own destiny and create a political system in society. From the first days of our independence, great attention was paid to the National Idea. As the First President said, I think that if we imagine the best aspirations and hopes of any nation, we will be able to express the essence of such a broad concept. Today, the attention to the national idea has increased more than ever. This is because the teaching of science as a new subject has begun at the Higher Education Institution. This has helped to raise the attitudes of students to the national idea. We have the strength to fulfill the great tasks set before us by President Mirziyoyev in his Address to Parliament. - a national hero who will be a source of power The need for our development has been highlighted. In particular, we need to understand the national identity, study the ancient and rich history of our country, strengthen research in this area, and fully support the work of scientists in the humanities. The assessment of the past must be objective and, most importantly, free from differences of opinion. "There are people who think of the old Soviet ideology as a national idea," he said. This is also true, but if ideology is human, if it serves to glorify human rights and freedoms, why should we be afraid? The basis of all our actions is to please our people, and this is the basis of everything we do in terms of humanity. In this regard, I would like to emphasize that the ideology of the New Uzbekistan we are creating will be the idea of "goodness, humanity and humanism"².

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, national tolerance is achieved through respect for the language, religion, way of life, customs and traditions, national cultural heritage of people of different nationalities, respect for their honor, dignity and dignity. Represents a specific spiritual breadth (tolerance) National tolerance is not achieved at the expense of the contrary, to the detriment of the national interest. It will be strengthened on the basis of a balanced view of the interests of different nations.
