

THE STRUCTURE OF SPANISH PHRASEOLOGICAL UNITS DENOTING HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Davurov Humoyun Shavkatovich*; Cristina Velar

*Teacher,
“Spanish and Italian Languages”
Department of Samarkand State Institute of Foreign Languages,
Samarkand, UZBEKISTAN

Teacher of philology school,
Bandera, Norway, EUROPE
Email id: cris_velar@gmail.com

DOI: 10.5958/2249-7137.2022.00341.X

ABSTRACT

Phraseology as part of the linguistic picture of the world and one of the tools for the study of language, culture, history, national traditions and customs has been studied quite deeply. The study of phraseology allows a deeper understanding of the history and character of the people.

KEYWORDS: Cultural Component, Human Behavior, Phraseological Units, Life Experience.

REFERENCES

1. Vinogradov VV. Lexicology and lexicography. Moscow, 1977. 240 p.
 2. Levintova EI, Wolf EM, Movshovich N.A, Budnitskaya IA. Spanish-Russian phraseological dictionary: 30,000 phraseological units. Moscow: Rus. yaz., 1985. 1080 p.
 3. Samokhina TS. Differences in the communicative behavior of representatives of different cultures in similar situations of business and professional communication. Discourse of professional communication. 2019;1(1):99-110.
 4. Filatova NI. Teaching linguistic students the idiomaticity of oral foreign speech: dis. ... cand. ped. Sciences. Pyatigorsk, 2002. 226 p.
 5. Davurov H. Linguocultural approach to the study of Spanish phraseological units. Asin Journal of Multidimensional Research. 2021;10(10).
 6. Shvachko, EV. Scientific schools. Youth in Science and Culture of the 21st Century: Proceedings of the Intern. scientific and creative forum. Oct 31–Nov 3 2017. Chelyab. state Institute of Culture; Chelyabinsk: ChGIK, 2017. 394p.
 7. Tukhtasinov IM. Productive models of compound words denoting external signs of a person in modern English. Young Scientist, 2010;(5-2):47-50.
 8. Madaminovich TI. The Linguistic Peculiarities And Appropriate Methods Of Translation. Eastern European Scientific Journal, 2017;28(12-4):52-53.
-

9. Tukhtasinov IM. Linguo-culturological and gender specifics of compound words in literary texts (the case study of English and Uzbek]: author's diss... PhD in Philology, Tashkent: UzGUML. 2011.
10. Tukhtasinov IM. National and cultural specificity of complex words expressing the appearance and character of a person in English and Uzbek. Bulletin of the Chelyabinsk State University, 2012;(256(2):122-125.