ABSTRACT

In modern English phraseology, phraseological units with the components of nomination of a person by social status and nomination of a person by socio-professional characteristics are notable for the fact that they have the strongest level of activity. Phraseological units with these components are interesting because social signals are clearly expressed in semantics. The article discusses the phraseological units with the components of nomination of a person by his social status and socio-professional characteristics in English, the ways of their figurative rethinking (metaphor, hyperbole, irony, euphemism, paraphrase, comparison, oxymoron).

KEYWORDS: Phraseological Units With The Components Of The Naming Of A Person In Accordance With His Social Status, Level Of Activity, Phraseological Metaphorization, Hyperbolization, Irony, Euphemism, Paraphrase, Comparison, Oxymoron, Figurative Reinterpretation.
